

Contra Costa County PeopleSoft Training

Using Fluid pages

Information Panel

Information panels display details about the action panel item that was selected. Often these panels allow users to edit, add, or delete information. Information in an information panel is displayed in a grid.

Here's an example of an information panel. In this example, clicking on one of the addresses listed in the Addresses grid, opens a page that allows you to edit the address.

The screenshot shows a web application interface titled "Personal Details". On the left is a navigation menu with items like "Addresses", "Contact Details", "Name", "Ethnic Groups", "Emergency Contacts", "Additional Information", "Disability", "Veteran Status", and "Form I-9". The main content area is titled "Addresses" and contains a table with two rows. The first row is labeled "Home Address" and the second "Mailing Address". Both rows show a redacted address and the status "Current". A blue callout bubble points to the "Addresses" menu item, and a red border highlights the "Addresses" table.